We are in a fraught time, where many people have forgotten what unites us, instead focusing on how we are different. When the latter moves from an internal thought to action, people suffer. This is where the Orange County Human Relations Committee comes in.

I am passionate about trying to heal division, understand the root causes of it and help educate all of us about how we can, and must, do better. I believe my legal background comes in very handy, as does my personal background; I am a child of a survivor of Auschwitz, who has learned second hand what humanities' inhumanity to each other can bring, if not checked. I seek appointment to the Commission for a simple reason-to make a difference.
